INSTALLMENT NO 5

THE RAID on Clark Field was over in 14 minutes, except for a little peppering by light Jap planes. I ...to the field as the last of the large bombers was ...ming away. The place was a shambles, twisted and ...ing and sending great pillars of black into the sky. ...e than half of the new B-17's, which had just flown ...ere scattered about the place in thousands of pieces. All the machine shops and hangars were down and most of the officers' quarters and barracks.

GEN. WAINWRIGHT

I did what I could to organize the removal of the 193 dead and wounded. We had only three or four ambulances at Stotsenburg but we used trucks for the overflow and got the wounded over to our hospital. Ninety-three of the casualties were killed at Clark. Seven more died that night in our hospital.

Most of our planes were caught on the ground. Our fighters, such as they were, ...e not at Clark that day. They were based at a new ...l at Iba, on the coast of Zambales Province, about 40 ...s north of Olongapo. They were hit just as suddenly, just as hard and simultaneously with the bombers ...Clark. The fighters had been up earlier that day but ...landed for fuel and lunch.

Jap Plane Losses Light

The Japs lost only two planes during the raid on ...rk. These were shot down by the 200th Coast Guard ...illery's anti-aircraft batteries stationed in cantonment ...he edge of the airfield.

As for enemy paratroops, the only chutists my Filipino troops captured that day were half a dozen American boys who baled out of a disabled B-17. Cavalrymen ...n the Twenty-Sixth Regiment crashed through the ...kets into valley east of Clark and rounded them up ...ome risk to the fliers.

I rode back to Stotsenburg about 3 o'clock that ...rnoon for lunch, and found an American girl—a ...s. Necker, wife of the manager of the Radio Corporation of America station at Manila—sitting on my front ...ch. She had been up to Baguio with friends over ...week-end and had driven down to Stotsenburg be...e the Baguio raid. Her husband was supposed to ...et her at Stotsenburg, but the Japs had knocked down ...of the railroad bridges on the line leading up from ...nila.

One of Many War Victims

She was stuck, one of the first of so many defenseless American women caught in the machinery of war. ...n Dooley quickly found that there would be no train ...Manila until the bridge was repaired. So I fixed up ...oom for Mrs. Necker and got through a call to her ...band.

Mr. Necker seemed very grateful and asked me ...at he could do to repay me.

"Send a message to my wife and tell her I'm okya," ...sked him. He did this, and sent other such messages, ...of the last of which was a Christmas wire to Mrs. ...unwright just before the RCA station closed down.

I had thought of Adele a lot that first day of the ...r, had thanked God that she was out of it. But I ...ssed her badly. There were so many things to say ...t cannot be said to anyone but a wife.

Tom Dooley drove Mrs. Necker to Manila the next ...rning, and on the same day the undamaged and ...ched-up bombers at Clark Field took off and went ...th—along with the unscathed bombers at Nichols ...ld. What was left of the fighters stayed on Luzon, ...be whittled down in time to two planes. Throughout ...whole coming campaign our fighters were used mainly for reconnaissance. There weren't enough of them to ...ht the enemy.

GEN. M'ARTHUR HANDS PREMIER NEW REFORMS

Orders Given as Shidehara Meets Supreme Commander for First Time.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Oct. 11—General MacArthur met the new head of the Japanese government—Premier Baron Kijuro Shidehara—for the first time today and gave him instructions for wide social and political reforms which will require liberalization of the Japanese constitution.

MacArthur put it squarely up to Shidehara to take prompt and "vigorous" action to see that the Japanese people are clothed, fed and housed during the winter.

The meeting, at MacArthur's headquarters and initiated by Shidehara after he had called on the emperor, came shortly after the Allied supreme commander had directed the Japanese government to report within 90 days all foreign exchange assets, including private holdings and foreign properties of the imperial household.

Air Permit Revoked

Allied headquarters announced revocation of permission to the Japanese to operate an air courier and liaison transport service. The job will be taken over by American airmen.

Cost of the war to Japan from July, 1937, to its end was indicated by the commercial daily paper, Nippon Dangyo, which said the Japanese funded borrowings at the end of July, 1945, amounted to 114,289,000,000 yen ($6,819,266,666).

The reforms which MacArthur told Shidehara must be made in carrying out surrender terms included votes for women, labor unionization, liberalization of education, abolition of all secret government police and revision of industrial monopolies.

"The stated purpose of the recent financial directives is to assure that all Japanese owned foreign holdings and gold, silver and platinum reserves "would be available for such purposes as the Allies might direct."

30 Days To Comply

The new directive gave the government, its agencies and the imperial household 30 days to file reports. All banks, trust companies, security brokers and other financial institutions were given 45 days.

Four of Japan's big industrialists held a press conference today at which they expressed fears "Japanese Communists are waiting for the proper time to rise." Yesterday, in celebrating the MacArthur-ordered release of political prisoners, 600 Communists paraded to a point in front of occupation headquarters. On their way, they deliberately turned their backs on—instead of bowing toward—the emperor's palace

Draft Board Sends Nine Home

Fayette County Official Refuses To Call More Until Strikes Are Ended.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON C. H., O., Oct. 11—The Fayette county draft board told nine 18-year-old youths to return to their homes today after the five-member panel had announced it would not draft men until the federal government acted to settle the nation's major industrial strikes.

Board Chairman Howard D. Fogle told the nine, scheduled for induction at Columbus today:

"Well, boys, you have fulfilled your duty by reporting here. As you probably know, we have refused to induct any more men until these strikes are taken care of."

Fogle told the group he and other board members conferred for two hours yesterday with Col. Clay M. Donner and Lt. Col. W. P. Averill, executive officers of the Ohio State selective service headquarters.

"They told us we were all wrong and we told them we were going ahead with it," Fogle said.

"We have not changed our position. You can go home now," the chairman told the boys. He reminded them they were free to volunteer.

Among the group which reported was Willard Wisecup, 18, father of a six-months-old son. Wisecup's wife accompanied him to draft board headquarters.

Other men who reported were Carl Gardner, Gene Bowshier, George Buck, Earl Stritenberger, Joseph Ails, Clarence Ehrhart, Victor Rohde and Robert Meriweather.

Fogle said telegrams announcing the board's action and outlining its position had been sent to Ohio congressmen and senators.

National selective service headquarters at Washington declined comment because it had not been informed of the situation.

Soldier Home for Rites for His Entire Family

By The Associated Press

MORGANFIELD, Ky., Oct. 11—The homecoming today of Pvt. William H. Garrett, 29, from the European war theater was far different from most of most GI's.

Rushed to New York on a plane bearing Gen. Mark Clark, Garrett was flown last night to Sturgis, Ky., airfield to attend the funeral of his entire family.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Leslie Garrett, and his six brothers and sisters were killed last Saturday in an automobile accident near Providence, Ky. This afternoon they will be buried.

In the second bracket of the club tourney, Charles Cupani won from Art Yazel, 5 and 3, Cupani putting together a 46 and a 42 for an 88 total while Yazel's 49 and 44 totaled 93.

CONTRADICTS STORY OF PRISON RESCUE

By The Associated Press

LUENEBURG, GERMANY, Oct. 11—Testimony of a 28-year-old Jewess that she was the only person to emerge alive from the Oswiecim gas chambers was declared a lie today by Franz Hoeszler.

Hoeszler told a British military court, trying him and 44 others on war crimes charges, he had saved several hundred persons from death, but that the Jewess, Sofia Litwinska, did not figure in the incident in which she portrayed herself in the leading role and that her testimony was otherwise garbled.

The woman actually involved never reached the gas chambers, he said, and a camp functionary acting under his orders rescued her.

Truman Asks More U.S. Aid for Winter Relief in Europe

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—President Truman told congress today only $30,000,000 of this country's $2,000,000,000 appropriation for United Nations relief remained unmemmitted Aug. 31.

Mr. Truman transmitted the fourth report on American participation in UNRRA as the house appropriations committee began closed hearings on his request for another $2,000,000,000 to meet "acute need and privation" in Europe this winter.

"Life showed in the eyes of the people," the President said in a letter which depicted grim war conditions which still plague the people of liberated countries and which will continue to exist for many months to come.

"The more this task can be speeded up through the early delivery of vitally needed supplies, the sooner it will be possible for UNRRA to withdraw, leaving the liberated peoples on a firm footing to carry on their own life."

The report covered the quarter ended last June 30. UNRRA officials said it was late because of what they termed "confusion" in translation of the foreign communications, under which UNRRA operated, and in transfer of the agency.

A spokesman for the agency said they would point out that a continuing crisis existed that [illegible] all of nations particularly hard hit by the war. [illegible] the agency's [illegible] mense task" despite deficits of critical supplies and shipping, Mr. Truman added:

MORE MINERS JOIN RANKS OF IDLE STRIKERS

Number in Walkouts Mounts Despite Return of 42,000 Garment Workers.

By The Associated Press

The nation's strike lines held at around the 450,000 mark today as fresh labor disputes almost offset the return of 42,000 workers to jobs in textile plants.

As new shutdowns in the six-state soft coal strike area forced additional thousands to be idle, bituminous operators and United Mine Workers union representatives failed to agree on a compromise proposal to end the 21-day work stoppages.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach again summoned the conferees into session today to attempt to settle the dispute between the operators and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers. The disputants, he said, are not far apart in their controversy over recognition of the UMW foremen's union.

The secretary was expected to report to President Truman today on the progress of the negotiations. Failure of settlement is expected to see a further spread of stoppages in the coal pits. Some 188,000 miners have walked out from nearly half of the country's soft coal mines.

Operators Reject Proposal

Although Lewis said he would call off the strikes if the operators agreed to negotiate on the recognition issue, the operators rejected the proposal. They said if they negotiated, they wanted to protect their present opposition to bringing the foremen into the Lewis union. They maintain foremen and other supervisory employes are part of management.

As the conferences continued, new pits closed, and the coal shortage hit harder at steel production. West Virginia's idle jumped to 78,400 and production dropped to less than a fourth of its daily output of 600,000 tons; 60,475 were out in Pennsylvania pits and the loss was 323,000 tons daily. In Kentucky the strikes kept 27,200 away from work; 8,000 each in Ohio and Tennessee and 5,000 in Indiana.

In Hollywood, the picketing of Warner Brothers Studio appeared headed for a showdown. Movie strike leaders called 20,000 AFL aircraft workers into the picket lines at the studio's main gate and 500 officers were summoned to maintain order. Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz said if the aircraft workers picketed the studio they would be subject to immediate arrest.

To Join Lines

A spokesman for the aircraft workers said they would join the picket lines "to prevent unjustified beatings by members of Warners' police when they appear as peaceful pickets." More than 100 persons have been injured in clashes at the studio, which stemmed from the eight-months-old jurisdictional dispute between two AFL unions over representation of 77 set decorators. Yesterday 326 pickets were arrested but later were released.

There was no improvement in the serious strike of 35,000 to 60,000 AFL longshoremen in New York harbor.

Truman Hears Report from Schwellenbach

SPEED RETURN FROM PACIFIC

Men To Come Home at Rate of 200,000 a Month for Six Months.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Oct. 11—American GI's will be returned to the United States from the Pacific at the rate of more than 200,000 a month for the next six months, Allied headquarters announced today.

By the end of March 1,250,000 men will have been returned to the United States, leaving approximately 400,000 men in the occupation forces and units manning Army installations in the Pacific theater.

In Japan four divisions (about 60,000 men) of combat troops plus air service troops and special occupation units will remain. The Pacific forces will include 200,000 in Japan and Korea; 7,000 in the Philippines and 36,000 in Okinawa and the rest of the Ryukyus islands. The rest of the 400,000 will be troops and service forces in Hawaii, the Marianas and other Pacific bases.

General MacArthur estimated previously 200,000 men would be needed for the occupation of Japan six months after surrender; today's announcement cuts that figure by the two divisions (approximately 30,000 men) which will be deployed to Korea from the total of 200,000 for the dual Korea-Japan occupation area.

The mass movement from the Pacific will be handled through eight big processing centers at Honolulu, Okinawa, Saipan, Tacloban, Jinsen and Manila. The low point men will be screened out to remain with the occupation forces replacing high point men from the units in the field, general headquarters said.

Final Arguments Today in Springfield Trial

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 11—Final arguments will be heard in today's session of the perjury trial of William E. DeWitt, former campaign manager for Clark County Sheriff Niles Young.

Defense counsel rested yesterday after the 52-year-old politician and three character witnesses were called to testify against the state's charges that DeWitt had received $200 a month "protection" money from gamblers.

Young, also under indictment on bribery charges, did not take the stand.

DeWitt is accused of presenting false testimony to a grand jury which indicted him during a gambling investigation.

Testifies Kesselring Tried To Stop Killings

By The Associated Press

ROME, Oct. 11—A German army lieutenant testified today Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's headquarters widely ordered Gen. Anton Dostler not to execute the 15 American military prisoners Dostler is accused of ordering to death. The soldiers, all members of a commando detachment, were executed after they had surrendered and were in the hands of Italians, who handed them over to the German army command.

BOTH PARTIES WANT LOWER FEDERAL COSTS

Aim Voiced as House Prepares To Vote on New Tax Bill Today.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—House Democrats and Republicans joined today in demanding a slashing in federal expenditures as the chamber began consideration of a $5,350,000,000 tax reduction bill.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the tax-framing ways and means committee, told his colleagues the budget must be balanced and payments must be made on the huge national debt.

House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts "served notice" his party would fight "with unflagging determination to reduce the costs of this government and, by so doing, eventually reduce the burden of taxes."

The house took up the measure on a take it or leave it basis as proposed by the ways and means committee.

Convening two hours earlier than usual, the chamber adopted procedure designed to speed the first peacetime tax reduction measure to passage by nightfall. Under the arrangement, no changes could be made from the floor without consent of the ways and means committee which drafted the legislation.

The measure, which also must be approved by the senate, would do this beginning January 1:

1. Guarantee every individual income taxpayers a reduction of at least 10 per cent. Total cuts for individuals would amount to $3,827,000,000.

2. Sweep 12,000,000 low income persons off income tax rolls. When the war ended there were approximately 50,000,000 individual taxpayers.

3. Lower corporation tax burdens $1,886,000,000 by trimming the effective rate of the war-imposed excess profits tax from 85.5 to 60 per cent; reducing the combined corporation normal and surtax from 40 per cent to 36; and repealing next July 1 the declared value capital stocks tax. The bill calls for repeal of the excess profits tax Jan. 1, 1947.

4. Cut back next July 1 the high wartime excise levies on such things as liquor, furs, jewelry, luggage and cosmetics, at a saving of $838,000,000 to consumers in the last half of 1946. Some $160,000,000 in taxes on floor stocks under excises also would be refunded to business.

5. Repeal the $5 automobile use tax, next July 1, relieving the burden on automobile owners by $140,000,000.

The legislation also freezes the social security tax in 1946 at one per cent each on employes and employers. Without the freeze this tax would jump January 1 to 2.5 per cent.

COL. PERON LOOKS TO NEXT ELECTION

By The Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 11—Gen. Eduardo Avalos, commander of the powerful Campo De Mayo garrison, took over the Argentine war ministry today as the power behind the military government, but there were indications Col. Juan Peron, though divested of his cabinet status, remained a strong factor in the political situation.

Only a few hours after the government had accepted Peron's resignation as vice president, war minister of labor and social welfare, he delivered a speech last night to an enthusiastic crowd in which he pledged the remainder of his life "to the cause of the working man."

(Peron's speech was interpreted in some Latin-American quarters as inaugurating his campaign for designation as president in the general elections which have been promised for April.)

Avalos, leader of the actual fighting which put Peron on a position of power in the 1943 revolution, was designated as war minister last night.

The first acts of the government under Avalos' domination included the closing of a half-dozen newspapers, which apparently had subsided too freely when Peron stepped down.

★Of Catherine Bortsheller who passed away Oct. 11, 1944.
Mother was tired and weary,
Weary with toil and with pain;
Put by her glasses and rocker,

Never to sigh or weep;
After long years with life's struggles,
Mother has fallen asleep.

Gone but not forgotten,
And never shall you be.
Memories of you ever linger
To guide and comfort me.
Many are the happy memories
Of you Lemoyne, so kind and true
And the years we shared together
Until that day God called for you.
The years of sharing joys and sorrows
Working, toiling side by side
Shedding tears or sharing laughter
In my heart these thoughts abide.
As the years are slowly passing
'Till I join you once again
In your happy home in heaven
Where we'll never suffer pain.
Heavy is the load of sorrow
Since that day you passed away
Grief that I alone must carry
'Till we meet some happy day.
When I pray to God for comfort
'Tis then you seem so very near
Oft I've wondered then dear husband
If these prayers you too can hear.
Your loving wife

Grave of Union Co. Soldier Missing Since World War I, Found in France

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Oct. 11 — A local "missing in action" soldier of World War I is buried in the American military cemetery at Thiacourt, France, about 18 miles northeast of St. Mihiel. The finding of the grave during World War II clears up a war mystery dating back to June, 1918.

William C. Otte of this city and Willard Vane Winter of Raymond have each written home of seeing the name of Cpl. Ralph Berger of "C. E, 16th Inf., 42nd Div." on the roster of World War I soldiers buried in the cemetery. Winter's father, the funeral director at Raymond, was a member of the 166th. Cpl. Berger's father is John Berger of Marysville and the letters were the first word he had of his son's grave.

On Night Patrol

Cpl. Berger was a member of a night patrol Marysville Co. E 166th Infantry, sent into "No Man's Land" in the Baccarat sector, south of Luneville, the night of June 2, 1918. The patrol, consisting of 39 men commanded by Lt. Fred Flick, encountered a German raiding party of about 80 men heavily armed for an assault on Co. E trenches to take prisoners.

The fight in the darkness of No Man's Land continued for forty minutes as the Co. E patrol fought off the larger force and slowly withdrew to its own lines. During the fight, Cpl Berger was wounded in the head and Pvt. Mack Winget was wounded so badly he died a few days later in a hospital in Baccarat. A number of other men of the unit were wounded, but recovered.

Cpl. Berger was being carried back unconscious, and perhaps dead, by men of the patrol. He was put down several times as they used their guns during German flanking attempts. Faces of men on night patrols were blackened before they went out, and during the confusion of the fighting in the night he was not moved after one stand and when the patrol got back to its lines it was found he had not been carried to the trench.

Never Reported

Nothing more was heard of Cpl. Berger. It was assumed he was taken back to the German lines, probably dead, and buried there. The Germans never reported him as a prisoner or as having been buried. The graves registration setup after the war did not report to his parents finding his grave and it was considered possible a shell burst had wiped out his grave behind the German lines.

He was considered the first battle death casualty of Co. E, which had five stars on its European campaign ribbon when it returned home. Seventeen of the 163 men who left Union county with the unit lost their lives in battle. More than that number of replacements from outside Union county also were killed.

U. S. Stands Pat on Control of Defeated Japan

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

There are several highly important implications in Secretary of State Byrnes' announcement that the United States has called a meeting of the proposed far eastern advisory commission for Oct. 23 in Washington.

Foremost among these is the clear indication that Uncle Sam has his chin up (but not out) and is standing on his prerogatives in the matter of Japan's reformation and rehabilitation. Along with this he is backing up his good and faithful servant, Supreme Commander MacArthur. Equally important is America's desire for advice from her allies in working out the Japanese problem. And last but not least, there are great potentialities in the possibility that India may be invited to join the advisory commission.

D. Mackenzie

Mr. Byrnes has given MacArthur a mighty fine vote of confidence. It would have come as a shock to the average citizen if the secretary had said other than that the government has no intention of altering MacArthur's status as supreme commander in Japan. It would have been surprising, too, if Byrnes hadn't confessed that he doesn't know of any complaints about the way the general has been doing his job.

MacArthur was assigned one of the most delicate and dangerous of the post-war tasks. If anybody could work faster than he has in disarming close to 3,000,000 Jap troops with a handful of Yanks, and gaining control of 80,000,000—even to making the mikado wait on him, hat in hand—it would be a privilege to meet him.

Doesn't Favor Move

Mr. Byrnes' remarks about MacArthur came in connection with Russia's suggestion that the establishment of a control council for Japan should precede the creation of the advisory commission. He doesn't favor such a move, since it obviously would mean either replacing the general or lowering his status as supreme commander.

The idea of inviting India to join the advisory commission is of far-reaching importance. Nine nations already have been invited to join with America in the Washington meeting—Russia, Britain, China, France, Canada, Australia, the Netherlands, New Zealand and the Philippines. England has suggested that India be included. The United States has agreed and has passed the suggestion on to Russia and China for their decisions.

The raising of India's name has a double significance. In the first place I believe we can take it as an especially friendly gesture towards this Great British possession by England's new Socialist government. One of the main planks in the government's platform is to do all possible to implement Britain's promise of dominion status for India, and the London cabinet already has started work on this program. So one likes to look on the proposal regarding the advisory commission as the rainbow of great promise for India's future.

Akron Rape Slayer Meets Death in Chair

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 11—Charles Stewart, 30, of Akron, electrocuted last night for the rape slaying of Mrs. Mabel Baxendale, 51, died just one year after the death of another woman whom he confessed killing.

The tavern porter was convicted of the murder of Mrs. Baxendale as she returned from her war plant job last May 18. He faced a second first-degree murder indictment in the death of Mrs. Celia Senser, 56, who was raped, robbed and slain last Oct. 10. Stewart confessed to both crimes.

Born Oct 22, 1887 at Fountain Springs, Pa., Mrs. Foos was a daughter of Charles and Jane Spaulding Weber. In 1907 she was married to Atlee J. Foos in Marion. She was a resident of Marion 40 years.

ctory Loan Drive Scheduled Get Under Way October 29

n County Leaders Arrange for Campaign To Sell Local Quota of $2,223,000.

ation's big Victory Loan e eighth major war fi- campaign of the treasury ent, will get under way and Marion county leaders ily getting set to enlist upport to the extent of 00 overall quota.

amount, individuals are buy $562,000 in E bonds. is figure and the overall resent about 25 per cent reductions from the goals in the Seventh War Loan, the last financing drive held before the war ended.

Many details of Marion county's part in the drive will be worked out at a meeting of the executive committee of the Marion County War Finance committee Monday morning at the committee's headquarters on North State street, Elmer J. Schoenlaub, county chairman, said. He announced that Robert E. White, co-chairman, would again help direct the big campaign—the last one for World War II. The drive will continue for six weeks, ending Dec. 8.

National Slogan

He emphasized the importance of success in this drive—the one the treasury department needs to complete the financing of war costs. The national slogan this year is, "They've Finished Their Job——Let's Finish Ours," and in elaborating on this Mr. Schoenlaub explained the reasons why the government is asking for 11 billion dollars even though the war is over. First, the care of the wounded and rehabilitation of veterans is to be a tremendous expense for years to come. Mustering-out pay, education, loans and general administration of the G. I. Bill of Rights must be added to the care of the wounded. Second, cancellation and termination of war contracts will require huge sums to pay for materials which were ordered, produced and delivered months ago. Third, the influence of the drive as a curb to inflation is regarded by government officials as a safeguard against an orgy of spending now and as a means of bolstering purchasing power through savings in the years to come. Fourth, it will be just as expensive to bring men back from overseas as to send them over, and this process will go on for many months. And finally, the cost of housing, feeding and providing medical care for at least two armies abroad during the occupation period will involve huge expenses.

For these reasons, the American public again will be asked to support a war financing drive—the Victory Loan.

List of Leaders

For the most part, Marion county's campaign will be handled by the "duration" organization that has conducted most of the war loan drives. The division heads include Chester C. Roberts, industry; Harold J. Grigsby, payroll savings; R. C. Snare, business district; A. J. Loudenslager, rural; Supt. E. E. Holt, Cecil Gabler and Rev. Father W. J. Spickerman, schools.

Since the drive will follow a harvest season, a strong agricultural campaign is being planned, along with activities to take advantage of the fact that schools are in session for this big drive.

Some of the preliminary phases of the work have been set up since Chairman Schoenlaub and L. Otis Porter represented Marion at a meeting with Harold Bredlow, executive director of the Ohio War Finance committee, in Cleveland Oct. 3.

GOT A FIRE YOU WANT SMOTHERED? Man-mountain of the Imperial, Pa., volunteer fire department, better known as "Tiny Tim" Jones, will be right up there in front, all 473 pounds of him, to celebrate the Liberty borough volunteer firefighters' 18th anniversary. The "petite" fireman believes his poundage makes him the biggest flame-putter-outer. (International)

BEER HAIR SET

By International News Service

PORTLAND, Ore.—A girl newspaper reporter wouldn't rest until she had verified the story that beer, just the ordinary suds, makes a good wave-set. She entered the domain of a hairdresser, bearing three stubbies and a tall one. Back at the office, the city editor was not satisfied until he sniffed the beer coiffeur himself. "Not bad," he grunted.

Minister and Wife On Gideons' Program

Rev. H. V. Falor, pastor of Oakland Evangelical church, spoke at a meeting of the Marion Camp of Gideons at Hotel Harding Tuesday night and Mrs. Falor was speaker for a meeting of the Gideon auxiliary.

Reading a part of the eighth chapter of the book of The Acts, Rev. Falor commented on the account of the baptism of the Ethiopian queen's treasurer by Philip. He described "the Word of God as 'the treasure chest' and Philip as 'the key'," and urged his hearers to follow the example of Philip to "improve our opportunities as witnesses for God." Mrs. Falor spoke at the auxiliary session on "The Role of Woman in the Home and Her Sphere of Christian Influence."

Howard Orr led singing and the Ladies' trio of the Nazarene church, composed of Mrs. Marvin E. White, Mrs. W. Gaylord Jones and Miss Mildred Ellington, sang two numbers. Guests included Rev. and Mrs. Falor, Rev. H. E. Williamson of Akron, Mrs. Merrit Berkheiser of Rochester, Ind., Mr and Mrs. Clarence Brown, Mrs. White, Mrs. Jones and Miss Ellington.

CLASS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. J. E. Wick entertained the Ladies' Bible class of the First Evangelical and Reformed church yesterday afternoon at her home on Olney avenue. Mrs. Anna Zimmerman spoke to the group concerning work of the class. Mrs. Harry Zieg and Mrs. Harry Augenstein conducted devotions.

Mrs. Eva Thompson was awarded honors in contests. Mrs. Perry Bachelder, a guest, daughter of the hostess, assisted in serving. The next meeting will be with Mrs. R. H. Reidenbaugh at her home on Orchard street.

FINDS FORTUNE. Capt. Arthur Wood, above, New Center, Mass., 26-year-old skipper of the Santiago Iglesias, found a fortune at sea. His victory ship, belonging to the War Shipping administration and operated by Grace Line, was making a voyage to Oran when a greyish object first thought to be a parachute was sighted. Closer investigation made the captain guess the smelly mass might be ambergris, as it was brought aboard and cached away in an icebox. Tests by New York chemists have confirmed the captain's guess, that the near 500-pound lump of sea-going grease actually is ambergris, invaluable in perfume making and worth $1,000 a pound. Salvage laws would split the value of the find between the vessel's 11 officers and 43 crew members, but the fact the vessel is government owned might complicate matters.

President Asked To Have Ragweeds in U. S. Uprooted

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY — Dr D M Negro would have congress appropriate money to pull up all the ragweed roots in the country.

In his official capacity as president of the Heart of America Hay Fever Club and as one of the afflicted the Kansas City physician has written asking President Truman "to do something about it" when he gets time.

Confident the Chief Executive will help his eight-year-old organization's campaign, the enterprising doctor proudly exhibits a reply to letters he wrote in 1937 asking WPA aid in the country-wide destruction of ragweed.

"Certainly appreciate your letter of June 1 in the interest of sneezers in the summer time. I don't happen to be a sniffler myself but my daughter is. I rather think your suggestion is a good one.

"Senator Harry S Truman"

The WPA aid was not given on a national basis, although the Kansas City area profited from a WPA weeding out of pollen-bearing plants which cause 70 per cent of hay fever.

The Kansas City club, which has neither dues nor assessments and requires hay fever as the only qualification for membership, the first active organization of its kind. Its last national meeting was held in Duluth in 1942, although locally the club membership gets together often to talk over its common ailment.

Hay fever, which is prevalent from Aug. 15 until frost, is not only painful and uncomfortable but is likely to develop asthma. Dr Negro states "Congress should act in the interests of public health," he says.

3 Veterans of 37th Return to Sycamore

Special to The Star

SYCAMORE—Three of the 2,079 men of the Thirty-seventh division who crammed the deck of the Sea Corporal as it churned through the Golden Gate Sept. 28 were Sycamore's oldest veterans in point of service. T/Sgt. John Hardinger, S/Sgt. Claude Theodore Beitler and Pfc. Charles Koons had at last realized their dream of coming home after 40 long months in the tropical jungles. They left San Francisco immediately for Camp Atterbury, Ind., and together with many others of the 37th the three bronzed veterans received their separation papers on Oct. 4 and all arrived in Sycamore last week after completing just 11 days less than five years in military service.

The boys joined the Ohio National Guard Unit at Bucyrus Oct. 15, 1940 and were sent to Camp Shelby for their initial training and were made a part of the famed 37th division which originally was made up largely of Ohioans. On May 26, 1942, they left San Francisco, just 40 months to the day before their return. Their first step was New Zealand with a 10 day stop and then for a 10 month stay on the Fiji. They received intensive jungle training on Guadalcanal and their first operation took place with the invasion of Munda Island in the New Georgia group. Here the division first displayed the initiative and unsurpassed valor which later gave it the reputation of being one of the outstanding divisions in the Pacific.

WHEAT PRICES SLIP AFTER EARLY GAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 11—Wheat futures started higher again today but bullish enthusiasm wore itself out and prices turned downward under the influence of profit-taking and the government's bearish crop report.

Corn and oats also were weak most of the session because of the government's estimate of large crops of both feed grains and huge supplies held on farms.

Rye was firm most of the session.

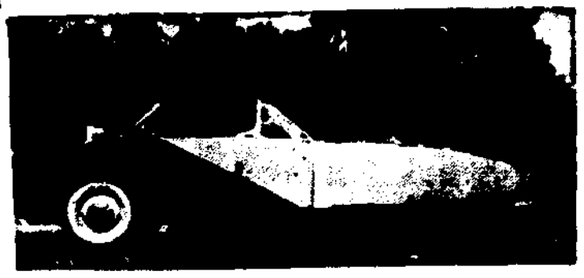
Didn't Wait for Postwar "Dream" Car



By The Associated Press

CENTRALIA, Ill. — Glen Page, an old field worker who got tired of waiting for that post-war "dream" automobile, has blossomed forth with a snappy new streamlined car.

The 31-year-old Page never had formal mechanical training, but he found enough odds and ends in the scrap pile to construct a three-wheel triangular-shaped car with the engine behind the passengers' seat.

The two-tone blue vehicle, which resembles a boat on wheels, was built in three months of night work. Its only new parts are two regular passenger tires forward and one truck tire aft. The four-cylinder engine averages up to 30 miles to a gallon of gasoline.

Page, who came to Centralia's oil fields from Eldorado, Kas., six years ago, claims he doesn't know how fast the car will go.

"I've had 'er up to 60," he says, "but my wife won't let me drive it any faster. Says it's too light."

Chapel Pastor Named at New Bloomington

A full-time pastor will take over the duties of the Wesleyan Methodist chapel at New Bloomington Sunday, Rev. Milton Coy of Cincinnati, formerly of the Kentucky Wesleyan Methodist conference, will be in charge of services of his new pastorate in the afternoon and evening and his family, Mrs. Coy and a small child, will move to New Bloomington soon. With two years of pastoral experience, Rev. Coy prepared for the ministry at a school in Florida. The New Bloomington chapel was opened a little over two years ago and services were in charge of Rev. Donald Howard, then pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist church in Marion. Rev. Howard's successor in Marion, Rev. Donald C. Fisher, conducted services in the New Bloomington chapel, and in recent weeks various services have been held there by Rev. Dennis Matherlee, new pastor of the Wesleyan church in Marion. Other Marion residents have assisted in the services.

CLUB HAS GUEST

Mrs. Mildred Wintermute and Mrs. Winifred Harruff were guests at a meeting Tuesday evening of the Mothers' club of Wesley Methodist church. Mrs. Mary Evans, Mrs. Hazel Evans and Mrs. Violet Mitchell were appointed to serve on the nominating committee. Plans were made for a penny supper to be held Oct. 19 at the church, to be sponsored by the club. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Della Davis of Windsor street.

1. Japs make unopposed landing Dec. 12, 1941, at Aparri and head southward through Cagayan Valley meeting opposition from a partially organized unit of the 11th Division
2. A second Jap landing was made at Vigan, Dec. 12, opposed by small units of the 11th Division. The Japs drove southward toward Tagudin where they were met by the first real opposition
3. To create a diversion, secure additional room for later operations, and to keep troops in Southern Luzon occupied, the Japs made a landing at Legaspi
4. Since the drive from Legaspi was stopped by destruction of bridges and by troops in the Bataan south of Antimonan, Japs were forced to make landings at Antimonan and Mauban
5. Having secured necessary beachheads, the Japs were ready for an all out offensive and landed in force between San Fernando and Agoo, on the night of Dec. 21-22. Although this landing was opposed by small units of the 11th Division and by the 26th Cavalry the Japs succeeded in driving into the interior.

Japs Land in Philippines

under as much cover as was available. The Twenty-Sixth Cavalry was moved from its barracks and stables and camped in a nearby woods. The horses of the pack battery also were led to similar shelter. The men of the pack battery stayed at their gun positions in front of headquarters.

And that day I started to get some transportation for the North Luzon force. It was transportation of a laughable kind, though not at the time. I hired a number of ordinary passenger buses from two commercial firms, which eventually helped us in the long and heartbreaking withdrawal into Bataan.

Transportation Rounded Up

I rented and bought smaller cars, too, for staff work, administration and couriers. When diligent efforts failed to unearth additional cars to rent or buy, I sent junior officers out on the roads and we got those cars by stopping them and requisitioning them on the spot. I was sorry about that, but our main chance of survival depended on our mobility. That I sensed, on top of sensing that MacArthur would be able to send me few of the supplies requested in the list which Johnny Pugh, my aide, had carried to Manila.

On December 9 MacArthur's chief signal officer, Brig. Gen Aiken, came to Stotsenburg to inquire what I needed in the way of communication equipment. My own signal officer, Josh Stansell, semi-explosively pulled out of his pocket a carbon copy of an unanswered requisition he had sent in to MacArthur's headquarters some time before.

Gen. Aiken looked through it and shook his head. He handed it back.

"We can't do very much for you," he said. "You'll have to improvise."

Equipment Sadly Inadequate

So as of December 9 we had only the public telephone and telegraph system for our communications, and our borrowed and appropriated transport system ranged from lopsided busses to sports convertibles. We had no Navy and no air force beyond the reconnaissance P-40's. All five of my divisions were still mobilizing. The Twenty-Sixth Cavalry, my pack battery and Philippine Scouts outfits were the only efficient combat units we had.

I drove up to Lingayen Gulf the next day, the 10th, to inspect the beach defenses of the Eleventh and Twenty-First Divisions. A number of Jap planes shot over us on the way, going south as we went north. But we were not molested. It seemed like a good omen at the time, but when I got back to Stotsenburg that night I knew where the bombers I saw earlier in the day had gone. My post was half-wrecked.

Worse, the bombers had sighted that part of the Twenty-Sixth Cavalry assigned to guard against paratroop landings and had wiped out a distressing number of men and horses, including some of my only seasoned men.

SAVED BY GREAT FIGHTER FROM BROOKLYN

All of them and their mounts would have been smashed if Col. (later Brig. Gen.) Clinton A. Pierce, a great little fighter from Brooklyn, had not seen to it that part of the Twenty-Sixth stayed in the woods.

It is hard to see a man die. But for a cavalryman it is almost equally hard to see a gallant horse die. The Twenty-Sixth lived to see them all die, one by one.

The Japs invaded the Philippines on December 12, 1941. They struck and landed at little Aparri, on the northern tip of Luzon, and on the far southeastern coast of the Bicol Peninsula at Legaspi. I was back at Lingayen Gulf that day and when I got my report from Aparri, which was the landing which concerned the North Luzon force, I decided to let them land.

They were feinting at Aparri. They had hit it with a reinforced brigade of about 2,000 men, attempting to pull some of my forces up to that point and weaken the already weak defense in the Lingayen Gulf region.

Besides, I knew that the only way south from Aparri was down the Cayagan Valley. I had a battalion in the Belete Pass at the base of the Valley, and dug in well enough to stop a fairly considerable force moving down that way. So I made no deployment of my main body of troops, so certain was I that when the Japs made their serious landings they would make them in the areas where I had the chief weight of my troops.

FINDS STOTSENBURG BOMBED AGAIN

But the rat was in the house, and it was no comfort. I drove back to half-wrecked Stotsenburg that night of December 12 to find that it had been re-bombed during the day. It was irritating as the devil to have my headquarters anchored at Stotsenburg instead of farther north. But I was tied down by my Thirty-First division, which was over on the Zambales coast. There was still a chance that the Japs would strike there, so I couldn't get too far away from it.

But on the 13th of December I did compromise by moving my headquarters to the village of Bamban, about 10 miles northeast of Stotsenburg. It had a better road running near it, and I knew that in the near future I would be depending more on messengers and couriers than on the fragile public phone system.

(TOMORROW: The Japs hit our undertrained, undermanned and pathetically equipped forces, who had only their hearts—and the leadership of Wainwright—to lead them)

LIKE GIANT DAISIES, the B-17's lined up on Clark Field offered a perfect target for the Jap pilots to pluck. More than half the Flying Forts were scattered in thousands of pieces when Gen. Wainwright reached the airfield. The scene above was made after the Jap bombing of Hickam Field, Hawaii.

COUNTY PURCHASES ROAD MAINTAINER

Huber Unit To Serve as Grader and Mower.

Walter W. Johnson, county engineer, announced today the purchase by the county commissioners of a new medium size road maintainer, the first of several pieces of equipment contemplated which will modernize the county's road and bridge maintenance department.

The new maintainer, purchased from the Huber Mfg Co., is one of the Huber company's new developments in the road maintenance field. It carries a nine-foot hydraulic controlled grader blade and has a five foot hydraulic-operated mower attachment which can be connected in a few minutes.

In former years the county owned three Huber industrial tractors equipped with maintainer and mower attachments but wished heavier equipment for road maintenance work. During the war, when government controls were placed on construction machinery, and a critical shortage of farm equipment developed, the county commissioners agreed to dispose of two tractors to farmers and the third was recently sold to a local contractor. A total of $2,585 was realized from the old tractors of which $2,395 was applied on the new unit.

Mr. Johnson said that snow plow equipment is receiving attention and that the county forces will have increased facilities this year to cope with weather emergencies.

SERVICES AT RICHWOOD

The choir will sing a review concert of favorite anthems under the direction of Mrs. Robert Clevenger, the pastor, Rev. Donald S. Hobbs, announced.

RIVALRY RESUMED

By The Associated Press

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—A chess rivalry interrupted by war has been renewed by Dr. R. H. Dotterer, professor of philosophy at Pennsylvania State college, and his son, Capt. John Dotterer of the Army medical corps. Their chess "tourney" dates back to 1919. "Dad has the perfect system," the Army medico explains. "When he wins all is well, but when I win he reminds me that he has taught me all I know about chess."

'Swamp Bird' Found and Captured Here

A bird known as a bittern, rarely found in this section of the country, was captured Wednesday afternoon by Edward H. Ruggins of 548 Delaware avenue, near the home of his son-in-law Harold Neidhart of 211 East Washington street. The bird apparently injured itself when it landed against a fence at the Neidhart home and capture was effected by putting a wire cage over it.

The bittern is a species of the heron family and lives in swampy sections. It is tawny brown in color with variegated streaks of brown and yellow. It has a long beak and when approached emits a peculiar droning, thumping noise which has been likened to the sound of an old-fashioned pump handle. Bitterns eat aquatic food, live in marsh lands and have nocturnal habits.

Mr. Ruggins, who placed the captured bird in a box, planned on taking it to the East Center street barber shop of John Jolley, an officer of the Marion County Sportsmen's association.

Eight Old Men and a Boy Win Series for Detroit Club

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 11—Baseball's takeoff on the nine old men—eight old men and a boy, in this case—brought the world championship back to Detroit today for the first time in 10 years, because the Chicago Cubs ran out of gas and pitchers.

That, plus some of the fanciest flinging of this fall frolics by lefty Hal Newhouser, for a new series strikeout record for seven games, meant the ball game and the set in the finale yesterday. Prince Hal was the boy in the cast—he is 24—and the boy turned out to be quite a man as he racked up his second win of the schedule.

That was the story in yesterday's 9 to 3 payoff. Jolly Cholly Grimm was so desperate for pitchers, after using most of them Sunday and Monday, he had to come up with heaving Hank Borowy for his third consecutive game.

Good as Hank was in this series—he won twice and lost twice—the Tigers got to him early. They drove him from the hill after nine pitches which three Tigers converted into singles and one run. Five other Cub pitchers followed him to the mound. That's the way those doddering Detroiters were. They ran, mostly as if they were dragging their anchors, but their bats were loaded with explosives.

The Tigers' hitting power when it was needed, and tight pitching in the pinches, was what made the Cubs lose their seventh series opportunity in 37 years after beating the Tigers in 1907-08. The Tigers—all the regulars except the pitchers are over 30—put on some great exhibitions of daffiness out there in the field from time to time. But when the final chips were down they picked them up with alacrity.

Hank the Glamor Boy

Hank Greenberg is a slowed-up 35 now, but he was the glamor boy of the series. He hammered one homer that won a game, another that kept his ball club in it; thumped three doubles in one tilt; scored seven runs and knocked in seven. He wound up with a .304 batting mark; which, with his 1934 and 1940 flailing, made him one of 13 men in all series history to go for .300 or better in three or more series.

Phil Cavarretta, the Cubs first-sacker and probably the most underrated man in the set, was the No. 1 ball-buster and came to the wire with a .423 mark, the second time he's run through a series at a snappy .400 or better. Now he's one of only eight hitters ever to turn the trick twice, and at the finish, some of the folks were wondering how come he wasn't wearing a Tiger uniform.

Richards Hits

Aside from Greenberg's fireworks, it might be anybody in the Tiger lineup to knock the roof in at any moment. Yesterday, tall Paul Richards, the 37-year-old catcher, pounded out a pair of two-baggers to zip four runs runs across. The first of these whacks was a base-cleaner for three tallies in the first inning, in which the Tigers, after clubbing Borowy to the showers, continued to have fun against Paul Derringer until they had chalked up five markers.

The game might just as well have ended there, Newhouser was not in the clutches. He was never in real trouble and finished up by fanning 10 Cubs to run his total for the series up to 22. This was two more than the record for a seven game series shared by George Mulin of the 1909 Tigers, Walter Johnson in '24 and George Earnshaw of the 1931 Athletics. The all-time high is 28 "whiffs" posted by Bill Dineen for the Boston Red Sox in 1903, when the series ran eight games. Those 10 strikeouts the Cubs were hit with yesterday left them with 48 for the series, a new seven-game high.

Besides Richards and Greenberg, it might have been Doc Cramer, the 40-year-old "youngster," who was just about the entire Detroit outfield. He chipped in with three safe blows yesterday to end up with 11 for the series, tying Cavarretta and third baseman Stan Hack of the Cubs in collecting hits.

In the field it was strictly no contest. The Cub flychasing trio of Handy Andy Pafko, who's now possibly the best center fielder in baseball pending Joe Di Maggio's return — Peanuts Lowrey and Bill Nicholson made the Bengal gardeners look slow in contrast. Nicholson, in addition, tied the seven-game series record by knocking in eight runs.

The series attracted more attention than in former classics. In spite of cold weather 333,457 fans paid $1,492,454, which with $100,000 from broadcasting rights, was a new all time high of $1,592,454.

The players for the two series clubs, along with the first division outfits in both leagues, wound up with $475,714.50 as their end of the "take." The winning Tigers each will collect $6,123 and each Cub will get around $4,277, plus the radio cut.

The Cubs scored 29 runs. No other club ever counted so many, and still lost. Newhouser was slightly touched for 14 earned runs. No other elbower ever gave up that many and still won.

BUCKS CAN KNOT UP RACE WITH VICTORY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 11 — Ohio State, defending Big Ten football champion, and Purdue, third in the 1944 race, have an opportunity to move into a tie with Indiana in the win column this week-end when the Buckeyes take on Wisconsin at Columbus and the Boilermakers clash with Iowa at Lafayette in the week's only conference games.

Both Wisconsin and Purdue lack reserve strength, and while victory may not be out of reach for the Badgers at Columbus, it would be an upset greater than Indiana's opening day win over Michigan. Wisconsin used only one tackle and one guard to supplement its line last week in losing 13 to 7 to Purdue. The Boilermakers substitute an end, tackle, center and three backs.

Wisconsin's squad was bolstered yesterday when Don Kind, regular halfback on the 1943 team, registered for the fall term and said he expects to be ready to play against Ohio State.

Loss of Series Jolts Grimm

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 11 — The saddest man in town today is Manager Charlie Grimm of the Chicago Cubs who was completely crushed by the Detroit Tigers' World Series triumph.

When a guy like Jolly Cholly, one of baseball's most beloved personalities, forgets to go to the dressing room to congratulate a winning rival you know he's sick way down.

Grimm wasn't among the backslappers that rushed into the Tigers' lair after their 9-3 victory yesterday. Charley was covering his sorrow with a grin in his own club-house, trying to cheer up his battered Bruins.

But there was one moment he didn't try to force a smile. That was when his 15-year-old son, Bill, silently shook his hand. Not a word was spoken as both strove to hold back tears.

It was bitter call for this affable manager, who once before had lost to those same Tigers in the 1935 series and whose 1932 Cubs were belted out of the lot by the New York Yankees. He wanted to win this one more than he wanted anything in his life.

BUCYRUS GRID STAR NOW ON NAVY TEAM

BUCYRUS, Oct. 11—A former Bucyrus High school football star and later one of the star ends of Ohio State, Cecil Souders, is now wearing the football togs of the Bainbridge Navy Commodores at Bainbridge, Maryland, where he is serving as an athletic specialist, 1st class.

He went to Great Lakes in 1944 after playing four games of the current season with the Buckeyes and within a week was a member of the Great Lakes squad.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Souders, 220 West Southern avenue.

Irish Ready for Mt. Gilead

St. Mary will meet Mt. Gilead to bring their own win column up to two.

at the Harding Stadium tonight at 8. This will mark the final game of the season for the Irish. It is also parents' night in honor of the parents of the team members. Both teams will be looking for their first victory in the Mid-State league.

The probable starting lineup for St. Mary will be: Bob Tobin and Orlando Tarantelli at ends, Fred Sampson and Jim Wagner at the tackles, Jim O'Neil and Joe Maniaci, guards, and Bob Irvin at center. In the backfield will be Tom Moran at quarterback, Charles Dunn and Dick Schuler at the halfbacks and John Baldauf at fullback. Bob Wintersteller, who is nursing a couple of injuries, may start at one of the halfback spots if he is in shape by game time.

Last week the locals battled to a scoreless tie with Richwood, while Mt. Gilead has yet to win a game this season. St. Mary will be out to try not to alter the Morrow county lads' record as far as victories are concerned and will try

Fazio May Start Against Badgers

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 11 — Freshmen may carry the tackle load for Ohio State university's Buckeyes here Saturday against the University of Wisconsin.

Russ Thomas and Thornton Dixon, first team tackles, remained out of heavy drills yesterday and Coach Carrol Widdoes expressed doubt they would see action against the Badgers.

Freshmen Chuck Fazio of Marion took over for Dixon and Forrest (Bud) Hamilton, a 204-pound huskie, was assigned to Thomas' spot.

The university athletic board last night named Sam Selby, All Conference guard for Ohio State in 1930, as the Buckeyes' freshman coach.

Selby, discharged from the Navy as a lieutenant commander, formerly coached the Otterbein college team.

MEETS MAD RUSSIAN TONITE

Pat "Tex" Riley one of the most popular grapplers to come to Marion will tangle with the Mad Russian, Leon Kirinko, in the one hour semi-final at the Marion Armory tonight. Both men are well known to Marion fans and their match is bound to produce some rugged action. The two hour main go between Sgt. Billy Fox and former world's champion Martino Angelo is causing a lot of speculation among the local fans and it looks like Fox's toughest assignment since the Marine came back from three years of battling the Japs. Both matches go for the best two out of three falls. First match starts at 8:30. Call 2745 after 6 P. M. for seats.—Adv.

OHIO STATE LEADS BIG 10 IN OFFENSE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 11—Ohio State's defending champion football team leads the Big Ten teams on offense with a total net gain from scrimmage of 377 yards, according to figures released today by the Western Conference Service Bureau.

The Buckeyes' gains included 228 yards rushing and 149 passing, to lead all conference teams. The Buckeyes also copped defensive honors by holding Iowa to a total gain of 158 yards, including only 27 by rushing.

Halfback Harold Daugherty of Ohio State holds the individual rushing lead with 57 yards in four attempts against Iowa for a 14.2 average.

Indiana's George Taliaferro leads the Big Ten passers with six completions in eight tosses for a three-game average of .750.

Victory - Hungry Presidents Get Set for Lima Foe Friday

Harding's Presidents will be gunning for victory number [illegible] Friday night when they tangle with the Lima South Tigers at Hard[illegible]ng Stadium at 8 p. m. The Tigers are expected to be plenty [illegible] for the inexperienced Prexies. Lima comes here with a record of two wins, one loss and a tie. Their defeat came at the hands of Lorain 14-0 and they tied Dayton Oakwood 0-0. The Tigers' first victory was over Fostoria 19-12. The most recent victory was over Middletown last Friday night 14-12, this being the first time the Middletown eleven had tasted defeat in two years. From all reports Lima South was really clicking that night. Harding, on the other hand, is going into this contest with a record of four defeats racked up against them.

Coach Joe Petrich said the Prexies were definitely not on the beam last Friday night. This week he is experimenting with several changes in his lineup. He is trying to work more weight into the line which indeed is not too heavy. Another thing the Presidents lack this year is experience. Many of the present squad went out for football for the first time this year. Practically all the rest of the boys saw very little action last season. Lima South has nine lettermen on their roster and is expected to throw plenty of surprise plays at Harding.

The Prexies will be without the services of three sophomores this week due to injuries. These boys are Jim Rea and Dick Huddle, halfbacks, and Bob Ralston, tackle. Petrich is not sure of his starting lineup yet due to the possible changes.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, N. J., Oct. 11—Louisville and Newark were riding the rails to the blue grass state today with the American Association Colonels needing only one more victory to wrap up the little world series championship. The minor league classic resumes at Louisville Friday night. Following last night's 8-3 victory the Colonels were in the driver's seat.

DETROIT, Oct. 11—The Detroit Tigers, dog tired but [illegible] after dragging down baseball's richest prize by beating the Chicago Cubs in the World Series, arrived home just before [illegible] today to find a mob of [illegible] fans—band and all—staging a victory celebration at Union Station.

Although the Tigers' train bearing the club home from Chicago, as more than an hour late the throng that jammed the depot and filled Fort and Third streets for a block each way continued to swell with pennant-waving, horn tooting celebrants even as the players were hustled along a police-lined aisles to taxicabs.

Manager Steve O'Neill, who hasn't had a te[illegible] in a World Series since he caught for the Cleveland Indians in 1920, couldn't believe his eyes.

"There's nothing in the world like it," O'Neill marvelled. "Now there's a reception. They love us, don't they?"

Wild cheers arose from the crowd as their heroes came in view—O'Neill, Newhouser, Greenberg, Richards, York, Trout.

Banquet officials invited 1,000 privileged Tiger followers to dine with their heroes—at $10 a plate.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—Good news for the winter track season: Little Johnny Fulton, who ran some good races on the boards in 1944, is back from a year in Panama and has been accepted as a student in the Harvard business school. . . . Walt Teninga, Michigan's 17-year-old freshman ball toter, is the son of Coach Fritz Crisler's former room-mate and fraternity brother at Chicago N. . . . Crisler has written the kid ever since Walt was eight years old—which is starting young to get 'em.

Credit Where Due

Although Walter Camp gave one of Navy's early-day football players, W. J. Maxwell, credit for inventing the original sleeveless football jacket, Capt. Maxwell refused to claim there was anything original in the idea. He once told a friend: "All I know was that wet canvas from sweat or water was mighty slippery to hold on to. I had learned that from furling sail, especially in cold weather." . . . P. S.: The current Navy backs are mighty slippery, even without wet canvas.

LOUIS SEES DANGER IN RING NEWCOMER

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 11—Elmer (Violent) Ray, Georgia kayo specialist who meets Jimmy Gardner of Philadelphia in a 10-rounder at the arena tonight, "is plenty dangerous for anybody."

Speaking was world heavyweight champion Joe Louis, who should know a battler when he sees one. The Brown Bomber referees the Gardner-Ray affair, which the Atlanta scrapper hopes will be a stepping stone to a match with Cleveland's Jimmy Bivins.

Dapper Tommy O'Loughlin, Ray's manager, says in their youth Elmer and his brother caught and wrestled alligators in the Florida swaps. The record book shows he has won 28 of his last 31 starts.

Louis, who may someday face either Bevins or Ray, commented "that big boy is plenty dangerous for anybody." When someone asked, "Even for Joe Louis?" the titleholder replied, "You ain't kiddin'."

END OF POINT SYSTEM HIT

Marion Congressman Declares Army Trying To Retain Men Beyond Need.

Cong. Frederick C. Smith of Marion today criticized severely the Army's announcement of discontinuing the point system for discharge and requiring all members of the armed forces to serve two years before release, according to a news report from Washington.

The congressman called for passage of his bills which provide for demobilization of the armed forces, the discontinuance of all inductions and the replacement within six months of all men needed for occupational service by members of the regular military establishment. He asked every member of the house to help him accomplish enactment.

Mr. Smith said: "If the President, the bureaucracies and our military heads don't know that the war is over, they should realize that the soldiers and the public do."

"I am convinced that the administration, the executive bureaucracy and controlling forces in the Army intend to use every means they can conceive to delay as long as possible the official ending of the war in order to hold onto and strengthen their grip on the war powers conferred by the congress. The point system for discharges must have interfered with their plan and they saw the opportunity to accomplish their end by continuing conscription for two years through this devious scheme. These same forces know that the country is overwhelmingly opposed to universal conscription of our youth, especially for policing the world, and it may be expected that they will use such indirect means as they can avail themselves of to force this program upon our people."

"From the many letters that I am receiving from practically every district in the United States and from the soldiers in every theater of the world where they are located, I am convinced that the public and the soldiers want congress to take steps to declare the war officially ended and the Army demobilized at the earliest possible moment."

"It is clear to me that high officials in the administration and Army are determined to keep as many men in the armed services as they possibly can, all their protestations to the contrary notwithstanding. They will fight all efforts to officially end the war and only an aroused and determined public will force congress to effectively demobilize our armed forces and permit the men who were conscripted to fight the war to return to their homes and loved ones."

Turkey's Longest Lawsuit Undecided After 150 Years

By International News Service

ISTANBUL—A 12-year investigation of an obscure lawsuit which had its origin in 1529 ended this summer in the Turkish courts.

It all began when Commandant Kara Mustapha Pasha bestowed upon some friends a couple of ancient buildings on a piece of land in old Istanbul.

The original buildings no longer exist. There are a couple of government offices in the area, and a piece of land over which two families claim ownership. Great grandfathers of these families started a personal feud about 150 years ago over who would own the buildings and who the piece of land.

With the Sultan's treasurer seizing the buildings, religious old courts appealing to Allah for help, and cousins and relatives clamoring for justice, the lawsuit dragged on and on through the end of the Sultans to the new Turkish Republic. Some kind of solution came in 1933 when suddenly the Palace of Justice burned down, and of all files and records there was nothing left but ashes.

But all those having knowledge of the case were assembled by the supreme court, and an investigation was started with the help of a committee including the Chief Imam (Moslem priest) of the Arab mosque, and others.

Here the 12-year record stops with the laconic comment of the exhausted judge appointed to solve the case: "This law suit is a bad legacy handed down to our new regime by the old one."

The present problems of the law suit—probably the longest in history—are comparatively simple. Decisions have to be taken on whether the buildings of government offices will be destroyed, whether the ministry of finance will take possession of them and the land, whether they will be just bought up or seized and whether the property, land and all, belongs to one family or the other.

Shoplifting Curbed in Special Campaign

By The United Press

LINCOLN, Neb. — Shoplifting, once rampant here, is being brought under control through close cooperation of the police, merchants, municipal court and newspapers.

Special policewomen and private detectives patrol the stores, watching for pilferers. Clerks, trained by the police to spot thefts, report them immediately. The newspapers consistently give publicity to such persons when they appear in court, where heavy fines are assessed.

With shoplifting losses now at a minimum, Police Capt. E. H. Masters is convinced the system really works.

"Anyone who makes a practice of shoplifting is caught sooner or later," he said. "They all decide, after being taken into court, fined and given publicity, that it's not worth the price."

The shoplifters—usually women—generally work in groups.

Equipped with a large purse or shopping bag, one woman takes what she wants, while others act as "lookouts."

Juvenile offenders do not create much of a problem, police explained, because they steal less consistently than adults. Parents are notified when a youngster is caught, and punishment left to their discretion.

Only explanation for the thefts, according to Municipal Judge Edward C. Fisher, is that people "think they can get away with it, and that nothing will be done to them."

Certain paper products are component parts of sea and land mines, of radio equipment, shells and other war weapons.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

MARY rose with alacrity, and followed me to the space where the luncheon table had been set, and from which the chairs and small tables belonging to the room had been banished.

But Jack and Noel complicated things by jumping up and following her, intent on helping.

"Please!" I said with uplifted hand. "This is one time when I distinctly do not need masculine help. Mary knows just what I want done, and the things are not too heavy for us to move.

I think that Katharine guessed my reason for refusal, for she acted upon my cue as if she had caught it.

"For the love of Abraham and the rest of the prophets, come back here and entertain a woman who appreciates you," she said. "When Madge is arranging things, any man and most women are in her way. I wouldn't think of butting in. Mary, your being chosen is something equivalent to the Croix de Guerre."

"Do I know it!" Mary returned, and the two men, laughing, and pretending to grumble, went over and sat down by Katharine, who at once began to talk volumbly, I guessed in order to give me a chance to get over my message to Mary.

"My father has a message for you, Mary," I murmured, directly following an audible instruction as to the disposition of the small table.

Unnecessary Question

She asked an unnecessary question about the table while she shifted her position so that our backs were to the rest.

"Okay! Shoot!" she then murmured in her turn, I rapidly told her of my father's wish that, upon some plausible pretext, she should take her grandmother, together with Roderick, Junior and Faith, down to her own apartment and keep them there until he should summon them back.

"That will be easy," she said. "I can manage that."

But when I told her of the Chief's special stipulation that neither she nor Noel were to come to our apartment in the interim, her eyebrows contracted into a puzzled frown.

"Something's cookin' about Georges I know it," she said, still keeping her voice inaudible to the rest.

"If you do, you know more than I do, I retorted. "Father hasn't seen fit to explain anything to me. But I can see that he's worried about something."

"And ten to one it's little Georgy Porgy," she said. "But don't worry. I'll manage everything. Just watch my smoke. But I'll have to invite everybody. Will you see that you four aristocrats whom Grandpa Spencer has singled out to stay behind, refuse my pressing invitation?"

I'll do that," I told her, as she put the last chair in place, and I set the flower centerpiece which had graced the luncheon table on a stand by the big window.

We barely had finished when the bedroom door opened, and my father, with my mother-in-law on his arm, came back into the sitting room.

Everybody rose to greet them, and I guessed that the lump in my throat was duplicated by the rest of the adults in the room as we saw the starry look in the aged woman's eyes. She was patently imbued with the "pride of office" and the consciousness of having performed satisfactorily a mission in the service of her country, but the smile on her lips was directed at her son.

Caressing Gesture

Swiftly he sent his wheel chair to her side, and put his arms caressingly around her shoulders.

"Bravo!" he said softly. "I can see you came through with flying colors."

"Indeed she did," my father said, as he put her ceremoniously into her chair. "I wish all my aides were as intelligent and as helpful."

Dicky's mother bridled and smiled at the compliment.

"You're spoiling me," she said, with the wraith of an old coquetry in her manner, and then Mary struck in.

"I don't know what all this is about," she said, "but I'm feeling slighted. This has been a wonderful party, and we thank you for your hospitality"—she sent a mocking bow to Dicky and me—"but Noel and I have a home, too, and we'd like to have all our relatives come over to our apartment for a bit of candy or a cigaret or something."

YOUR HEALTH

by HERMAN BUNDESEN, M. D.

Diet and Teeth

THE problem of what causes the teeth to decay and what to do about it, is still far from solved. It is likely that many factors enter into the process of tooth decay, but the role of diet cannot be ignored. There are too many facts which show the relation of diet to tooth decay to ignore careful control of the diet in attempting to check the decay process.

The Sioux Indians were meat eaters. They also grew some corn and beans. They chewed the beans and gnawed bones. Until their contact with civilization in the shape of white bread and sugar, tooth decay rarely occurred in these people. Their teeth were worn but rarely, if ever, decayed.

Eskimos eat meat, raw and frozen, and use their teeth extensively. Eskimo children reared near trading posts already show mouths containing crowded teeth subject to decay. Then parents have large, uncrowded teeth and strong jaws.

These things may indicate that use or disuse has something to do with the strength of the teeth and jaws. In other words, when the teeth are not used sufficiently, they degenerate, become less strong, and more subject to damage.

The teeth are made up to a great extent of calcium lime salts. Hence, sufficient calcium must be supplied in the form of milk and its products. Then vitamin D must also be furnished, since it is necessary to permit the calcium to be assorbed and used by the body.

Some studies on tooth decay indicate that the use of too great amounts of starchy foods such as bread, cereals and potatoes, and of sweets, may be a factor in production certain changes in the mouth secretions, that lead to tooth decay. In some children with tooth decay, cutting down on the starches and sugars has led to checking of the process.

Well-Balanced Diet

Until we know more about the exact relation of diet to the teeth, the best course to follow is to use a well-balanced diet, that is, one that supplies all the necessary food parts, vitamins, minerals, proteins, fats, and moderate quantities of sugars and starches.

The teeth should be used by chewing hard foods, crisp and crunchy foods and, of course, regular examinations, at least once every six months by the dentist, are important, in order that tooth decay may be detected early and the teeth repaired to check the decay.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. N.: Is it injurious for a person with high blood pressure to smoke?

Answer: I do not know of any evidence that smoking in moderation is harmful in most cases of high blood pressure.

K. P.: What are the symptoms of low blood pressure?

Answer. Low blood pressure may be present without causing any symptoms whatsoever. In some instances there may be fainting attacks, weakness and fatigue, depending on the cause for the low blood pressure.

N. L.: I take on an average of four one-half grains of a sedative drug every night and have done this for four years. I have a continued discharge from the nose like hay fever. Would the sleeping pills have any bearing on this?

Answer: It is not unusual for persons to be sensitive or allergic to barbiturates, which are commonly used to produce sleep. The continued use of sedatives in the dose you mention is definitely inadvisable and you should discontinue this habit.

(Dr Bundesen will answer letters containing medical questions only through his column.)

ited Air Lines Plans For Marion Listed by Officials

-to-Coast Service Contemplated for City If Application Gets Federal Approval.

Air Lines in its inning before Civil Aeronautics board Indianapolis yesterday, told how its proposed operation would provide new, direct service to such eastern ron, Cleveland, Allentown, Bethlehem, New York, Hartford and Boston, according to word from officials mpany.

also pointed out the advantages its service would offer to the west, including direct service to Moline, Des Moines, Omaha, Denver, Salt Lake, San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles, San Diego, Spokane, Portland and Seattle as well as direct service for the first time to 25 other cities now served by United in the west.

Coast-to-Coast Service

Harold Crary, vice president-traffic, testified that United is ready and able to give Marion substantial time, distance and fare savings to points along its coast-to-coast and Pacific Coast system. He said the company proposes to detour its transcontinental route only a few miles in order to serve Marion.

Crary declared that no airline seeking to serve Marion can give as much service to points not now having direct air service to Marion as United.

The airline official also offered examples of the time-saving which will be effected if United is authorized to serve Marion. Air time between this city and Chicago would be one hour 51 minutes as compared with four hours 46 minutes by rail; to Cleveland, 49 minutes by air as compared to one hour, 55 minutes by rail, he said. Flying time to New York would be approximately three hours.

One-Night Service

United also would provide schedules which would permit passengers, mail and express to leave Marion after the close of the business day and be in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland or Seattle at the opening of the next business day.

Also testifying for United were L. F. Hampel, who stressed the economic and industrial importance of Marion as well as of other cities which United would connect by direct service with Marion, and Andrew Devoursney, research associate of United, who discussed traffic flow and traffic needs between Marion and other cities.

The supreme tribunal, in another action yesterday, held August Troberg may continue his boat rental business at Sheffield Lake (Lorain county). Gertrude L. Stendal and others, claiming the business violated a village zoning ordinance, had appealed an appellate court decision in favor of Troberg.

A rehearing was ordered in Stark county common pleas court of a damage suit filed by Charles R. Lukens against Dentist Joseph M. Cain for alleged malpractice in extracting 18 teeth. Lukens claimed his health was impaired because the dentist did not remove all the roots.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, rocked or wabbled at just the wrong time. Instead of fear of this happening to you, just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. It's alkaline (non-acid) powder on your plates. It holds false teeth firmer so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour, gummy, pasty taste or denture breath. Get FASTEETH at any drug store. —Adv.

Saved by Luck

"FOR the first time since assuming this office six years ago," says Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, in his final report to the secretary of war, "it is possible for me to report that the security of the United States of America is entirely in our own hands."

Gen. Marshall's report describes the momentous events which gave the United States control of its destiny—events which came to fruition in the last two years of the war. His two preceding reports dealt with the desperate means of staving off disaster; this one, his last before retirement and well earned rest, deals with the nation's triumph.

The United States, concludes the man who bore the bulk of responsibility for its security, was lucky. We were lucky and our allies were lucky. At the same time, our enemies were stupid. Their stupidity and our luck averted disaster. If the Axis had been in fact what it was believed to be—an effectual military alliance, and if Hitler had been a military genius instead of a politician rattling a sword he did not know how to use, Germany, Japan and Italy would be today's Big Three.

Gen. Marshall makes it painfully clear that in his studied opinion the United States and the United Nations gained the victory after the Axis had beaten itself with fatal mistakes. "Nothing will contribute more to an understanding of the needs of security than a clear understanding of what has occurred in this war," declares Gen. Marshall.

What follows is a soldier's explanation, illustrated with military maps, of the grand strategy tactics, logistics and coordinated efforts of the United States in World War II. For an obvious reason, Gen. Marshall was obliged to be deeply selective in choice of material; he could not include everything. There will be some criticism, no doubt, of omissions, and there may even be some of the material he chose to include.

But in its general aspect, this is one of the frankest official papers to come out of the war. It seems to reflect the sincere judgments of the outstanding soldier who, more than other individual, has earned credit for the nation's outstanding performance in the war. Only the thoughtless will dismiss it as a routine document. It represents the thinking of a lifetime of observation brought to a climax by near-disaster in history's greatest war.

GEN. MARSHALL relates in considerable detail the events leading up to the final assault on western Europe—an assault made possible, he points out, by the refusal of the Soviet and British peoples to collapse under the blows of the Axis. Without Russia, he implies, the United States could not have launched an invasion. It could not have launched an invasion without Britain, either.

As it was, invasion almost came to grief on two acute shortages—assault craft and military manpower at the front. Invasion of southern France finally was postponed, to release assault craft for invasion of western France. The manpower shortage led to last winter's breakthrough at a thinly-held point on the American lines. One learns how invasion of North Africa, Sicily and Italy fitted into the grand strategy of destroying Germany's power to make war.

That always was the main objective—to destroy Germany's ability to inflict its will by military pressure. It did not matter in the grand strategy that the Allied campaign in Italy moved slowly, or that the offensive against Japan was moving slowly in the Pacific. The United States had undertaken the supposedly impossible—simultaneous war on two fronts against strong and determined enemies. It had to hit one of them at a time—hard enough to get rid of it permanently.

Gen. Marshall gives a picture of able generalship in which he had complete confidence—Eisenhower, Patton, Simpson, Patch, Clark, MacArthur, Stilwell and many others are mentioned with unstinted praise. In the description of the various campaigns, as well as in his remarks on general topics, there is abundant evidence of the prime importance of personal relationships in the solving of the nation's security problem.

Gen. Marshall's generosity in giving credit is nowhere displayed more strikingly, however, than in his acknowledgement to Great Britain and Russia. At the conclusion of his remarks on military manpower, he writes: "Even with two-thirds of the German army engaged by Russia, it took every man the nation saw fit to mobilize to do our part of the job in Europe and at the same time keep the Japanese enemy under control in the Pacific. What would have been the result had the Red army been defeated and the British Islands invaded, we can only guess. The possibility is rather terrifying."

The conclusion of the report, containing Gen Marshall's recommendations for the defense of the United States, is certain to get attention for its clear exposition of the difference between compulsory military training and compulsory military service. Perhaps no other citizen is better qualified to speak on the subject than the chief of staff who was responsible for America's latest "near-disaster."

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Give-Away of Atom Bomb Crushed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 — Mr. Truman promptly crushed the promotional campaign to give away the atom bomb. He summoned a hasty night press conference to say the secret would not be shared. A few hours earlier an American scientist had given scare testimony to congress which meant Russia might get the secret "in ten years" and then press a button and destroy every American man, woman and child (apparently only up to the border, no Canadians or Mexicans.) Scientists are presumed to know science, but are notoriously weak on other matters including politics, international diplomacy and warfare. It is an exceptional scientist who speaks wisdom outside his province.

Congressmen wondered but did not learn what we would be doing in 10 years, what our science would find in the way of answers and defenses for the atomic bomb which might make it safe to give the secret then to the world, or how a scientist could figure Russia would press the button in ten years but would not do it now if let in on the secret. My private checking indicates congress is overwhelmingly favorable to the stand Mr. Truman took as the only reasonable, sensible course.

Problem of Defense

The realization is sweeping over this city that we are indeed a new world and need to develop new sound conceptions of our problems. There is first the problem of defense, of honorable peace maintenance, in this new world. The newspapers and magazines have published photographs, with nations and seas pulled out of their normal geographical shape to show we are in that kind of a world now. But our thinking has not fully grasped the fact. Developments have not occurred which would permit our people—and indeed many of our government officials—to see it plainly, so that they would act upon it firmly.

Mr. Roosevelt once shocked the country by saying our frontier was on the Rhine. Do you know where it is now? It is Minneapolis, Duluth, the Great Lakes cities. It is beyond them in the wastes of Canada, the frozen north. Take a round globe, set it on the floor and look at it while standing over it. If we want to build our new air-forts of defense, there is where they must be.

U. S. and Russia

There are only two nations in the world with military wherewithal, Russia and the United States, and the frontier between them is the territory described above. Mariners used to speak of the great circle route across the North Atlantic as the greatest international highway of the world, and it was before this war. The new great circle route coming in from Europe to the midwest is now the world's greatest highway, and it is a high way. It runs up to 30,000 and 40,000 feet in the stratosphere.

Land armies of the future can be flown that way as well as great commerce and many people. Directed missiles can come that way—the rockets. If the button is ever pushed in Moscow, what it sends off to "destroy every American man, woman and child" would come that way. Our nets and screens must then be put out that way. Our radar must be beamed there. We ourselves must look that way, and not across the seas where the route is twice as far and nature affords protection.

Attack for Defense

As attack is a weapon of defense, our strategy would be deficient and as backward as Pearl Harbor if it did not look that way also.

Old times, old ways are gone forever. We need fresh imaginative unbound brains to work on these problems of defense, particularly a single department of the armed forces, if only to shake off the traditions of the past and shock our military men into making their best efforts. Our scientists must show the same unbound imagination in their realm of search for the answers in the new world—research.

Now do not call this new great road the highway of tomorrow. It is the highway of today. We are already at that point. We are there. We can set it. We can see it far more clearly than the future of the atomic era, yet unexplored.

It may be a long way from the road to Damascus, but there it is.

Facts About German Recovery

By Raymond Moley

THE people in America and Britain, who have been saying that the Potsdam plan for Germany's economic recovery would not work, now have strong support in the report of the experts advising the Office of Military Government. The experts, headed by the able Professor Calvin Hoover, included well-known practical industrialists.

In the main, this report makes the point that, with the loss of her eastern territories, Germany will have to be more, rather than less of an industrial nation than before. In the face of this, the position taken by Henry Morgenthau Jr., becomes fairly fantastic. The Morgenthau-Vansittart ideas, which no doubt were a factor in prolonging the war, now appear to be useless in the making of the peace.

In large measure, the experts confirm the views of Dr. Julius Hirsch, writing in Barron's four weeks ago.

Divergent Views

The report reveals very sharply the divergence of views between the Russians and the British with regard to the future of Germany. The best example of this divergence is in the estimates of the steel production to be allowed. The Russians proposed 3,000,000 tons annually. The British proposed 11,000,000 tons. The United States, at first, held the compromise figure of 7,000,000 tons, but has now revised that figure upward to 10,000,000 tons. Since steel production is one important measure of industrialization, it is important to note that the British-American figure is approximately twice the German steel production in 1932.

The Potsdam plan was to allow Germans no higher living standard than that enjoyed by their European neighbors. The experts accept this standard, but point out that in order to achieve it in many industrial lines Germany must be allowed more, rather than less production than before the war. This is because exports are essential to secure the food supply for what remains of Germany after the rich eastern provinces have been removed. It is also essential because the employment of those Germans formerly in war work must be provided for in peaceful industry.

American View

The American committee points out that half the exports from Germany should be in iron and steel, chemicals, optical and other fine instruments.

The difficulty of producing the exports necessary to the standard of living allowed by the Potsdam plan is accentuated by several other provisions of that plan For example, the machinery left, after deductions in reparations, must be increased by the production of new machinery. Also, compensating employment must be provided not only for that part of the population formerly in war work, but for those formerly in shipping, which is now forbidden.

There is also the necessity of producing enough to enable Germany to make payments on foreign investments in Germany and on the large debit clearing balances, which Germany had accumulated at the end of the war.

Facts of Economics

Once more, the inexorable facts of economics break in upon political and military judgments. In order to permit Germany to be even an inoffensive member of the family of nations, her economic life must have some recovery.

The truth of it all is that no plan by which a nation is to be held down by economic sanctions will work. If Germany is to be kept harmless, it must be by military and political, not economic force.

DOUSE THAT FUSE OR ELSE!

Everybody Wants High Wages, Low Prices

Argument Starts Over Third Requirements—More Efficient Production.

THE postwar demand for higher wage rates was foreseen. It was foreseen that there might be work stoppages in connection with the collective bargaining entailed in getting a decision.

What was not foreseen before war ended was the spread of misgivings about the tactics employed to carry on the bargaining—tactics threatening to become more important than the economic issues at stake in the bargaining.

The United States now has two questions, instead of one. One is whether it is economically feasible to give wage earners higher basic wage rates than they had in wartime. The other is whether the tactics of organized wage earner in prosecuting their claims will call for legislation to protect the public interest in collective bargaining.

Organized labor's power to halt industry was highlighted Sept. 14 when Ford Motor Co. laid off 50,000 workers and suspended virtually all operations because strikes had shut off essential parts. Simultaneously, leaders of the powerful United Auto Workers union announced a plan to enforce a demand for a 30 percent increase in wage rates by successive and systematic strikes throughout the automobile industry.

The demand was not unexpected. Both A. F. L. and C. I. O. had adopted resolutions stating that wage rates must be raised to maintain weekly dollar earnings at wartime levels after loss of wartime overtime pay.

Mathematically, their proposition looks like this: Workers on a 48-hour week are paid at straight-time rates for 40 hour and at time and a-half rates for eight hours, thus receiving the equivalent of 52 hours' pay at straight-time rates. Demands for a 30 percent increase are based on the claim that straight-time rates must be raised by that percentage to give workers the same earnings for 40 hours they have been receiving for a 48-hour wartime work week.

A major element in the theory behind the increase, is the fact many workers increased their earnings during war not only by working longer hours at straight and overtime pay, but by being upgraded more rapidly than would have occurred in normal times. Growth of wartime employment caused substantial increases in the earnings of industrial workers as a whole. Return of industry to normal patterns and the shift of workers to different jobs would reduce earnings even if there were to be a general increase in wage rates.

AN element of importance not given sufficient stress in most discussion was the wartime drain on workers' "take home" pay. A study by the bureau of labor statistics disclosed this situation:

A factory worker earning an average of $26.64 a week in January, 1941, had 27 cents taken out of his pay each week for social security taxes, leaving $26.37 available for spending. By October, 1943, the same worker's earnings had risen to $44.86. If he had a wife and two children and was assigning 10 percent of his pay to War Bonds, the remainder was $38.19—45 cents deducted for social security taxes, $1.73 for income and victory taxes, $4.49 for bonds. While this was $11.82 more than he had in January, 1941, the rise in the cost of living absorbed $6.17 of the excess, so the net addition to spendable earnings was $5.65 a week. As the war continued the net increase dwindled.

With income taxes lowered and bond deductions discontinued, spendable earnings could be maintained with smaller wage increases than those now demanded.

There are indications, disturbing to businessmen who must adjust costs to prices, that the Truman administration believes wages can be permitted to rise freely while OPA controls prices. In his reply to United Auto Workers' demand for a 30 percent increase in wage rates, C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors, said:

"General Motors cannot and will not use money saved up for many years for the purpose of modernizing and expanding its plants, and for providing more good jobs, to pay excess wages for work not performed. This money cannot be spent twice. Neither will excess wages be currently paid from presumed future excess profits when a realistic forecast of costs shows there will be no such excess profits. Nor can we pay from current income the increased wages demanded when the present OPA policy holds prices at substantially 1942 levels, especially in view of the fact that there have been important increases in wages and operating costs since 1942. Furthermore, there is no provision in the present OPA pricing formula for increasing prices to compensate for the additional cost that would be incurred if wages were increased at this time."

Four years ago, when President Roosevelt asked congress for authority to control prices, he declared there could be no price stability "if labor costs rise abnormally." Soon afterward, he improvised means of controlling wages. The Brookings Institution has pointed out in one of its economic studies that "the control of wage rates, the most important element in costs, is indispensable to price stabilization." It concludes that "in the light of the newly announced policy of relaxing wage controls and increasing wage rates in order to sustain purchasing power, firm control over costs, and hence over prices, has been surrendered."

While the wage issue appears to lie between those who want spending power and those who are expected to furnish it, the actual issue is something else.

It lies between a free and a managed economy. Private enterprise is saying in effect it cannot pay more wages than it can recover in selling prices; that there can be no free collective bargaining without similar freedom to charge what the market will bear.

The federal government and the labor unions have taken the position that private enterprise can be milked like a cow—but without satisfying the cow's appetite. When business spokesmen insist on the right to raise prices, that is called inflation. But when unions insist on the right to get higher wage rates, that is called maintaining buying power.

THERE is one conceivable way that labor costs could be increased without a corresponding increase in prices — an equivalent increase in productive efficiency. Economists say in the long run wages can be raised without raising prices only to the extent of greater productivity. But while efficiency increased in the munitions industry during the war, productivity tended to stand still or decline in civilian goods industries, owing to inability to obtain new machinery, loss of skilled workers and other factors.

The bureau of labor statistics has pointed out: "For a year or more after the end of hostilities productivity per man-hour may be little if any higher than it was in 1939. After a lapse of time required for reconversion, the installation of new machinery and the introduction of accumulated improvements in methods of production, postwar productivity per man-hour may rise for a few years at a rate very much greater than the prewar normal."

Eventually, this is the way labor could obtain wage increases without any impact on prices. But union spokesmen are not asking for increases eventually; they are demanding them now.

There is a bitter difference of opinion over the means of reaching the common goal, which is higher wages and low costs. President Wilson of General Motors, the corporation singled out for U. A. W.'s strike demonstration, is on record for the same thing the union says it wants. In November last year he said:

"There have been too many pat statements that consumer products and services will have to cost 25 per cent or 30 per cent more after the war because labor costs are up. That is shallow and passive thinking. So far as our own organization is concerned, we have no intention of accenting it simply because there are pent-up demands and prosperous ready markets . . . We are putting aside all ideas of a limited two-cylinder production and placing it in volume and wide distribution. In 1920 some 15 billion dollars in income were shut off with the closing of plants and reduction in working hours. There were 100,000 bankruptcies and a 44 per cent drop in industrial payrolls. That must not happen again. It can happen again during the postwar period of readjustment unless there is a strong effort upon the part of every business to hold down its prices, utilize its productive efficiency, cut its extravagant distribution costs, and maintain its workers' income."

Mr. Wilson added that "after the war is won take-home pay on a 40-hour work basis must eventually represent the higher level of earnings that now prevail." Higher wages will be justified, he said, by increased production.

To that, union spokesmen now are saying that higher wages without increased production must come immediately, or there will be no production at all.

Corn Cure

By Truman Twill

This is not the kind of thing a person mentions without hastening to explain that no one needs to leave the room; or even to wonder if it would be wise to edge toward the door. It is about reading.

In particular, it is about reading backward—but don't be alarmed.

This writer learned, of course, to read things from the beginning to the end, or until he wasn't interested any more, whichever came first. That went on for many years and used up a great deal of energy that might have been applied to something more worthwhile.

Not that we have anything against reading—that would be foolish under the circumstances. But as the years pile up and the future dwindles, any reader begins to resent his wasted time and wonder whether it might be wise to leave off reading all together.

That was how it happened that we began to read in reverse.

It is simple. Say you have picked up a copy of a current magazine like Saturday Evening Post. It contains more stuff than anyone wants to read, word for word. So instead of starting at the front and being tempted by the illustrations to begin this story and that story, you start at the back.

On the way forward, you look at the ads, which are as good one way as another. As you come across the ends of the stories, you read the last paragraph. If it's a zinger, you read the paragraph preceding and so on. If the end is so good you want to see the beginning you locate the front of the story, then read back until you meet yourself.

It also works for books and newspapers, but better for books than newspapers. The latter are written with a view to putting everything at the beginning of the stories. Toward the end, newspaper stories gradually fizzle out; they are planned that way so the makeup man can throw away anything that's left over when the space is used up.

With books, the opposite is true. Books are written to build up interest to a climax at the end. Most books spend the first hundred pages lulling readers into the idea of setting back and enjoying themselves. They are like plays in which nothing happens for the first few minutes because the audience must be settled first.

So that is how we began to read in reverse—to save time. It works. You learn how it came out in the end—and if the story laid an egg you don't have to go back to the beginning and wade through all that corn.

LAUSCHE SAYS OHIO WILL RESUME FAIR

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Oct 11 — Ohio wants to resume its state fair next year, Gov Lausche said yesterday, and wishes to know how soon it can get back the fair grounds now occupied by the Army Air Force.

The governor instructed John M. Hodson, director of agriculture, to press the Army for information on when the grounds can be released.

The Army Air Forces have been using the 150-acre piece of property, inside the Columbus city limits, for a supply depot

The state has been looking for a new site but the search has been fruitless so far.

Hodson explained later the state plans to stage a full-blown fair in 1946 with the exception of racing, which will be impossible because the track was torn up by the Air Force In lieu of a racing program, Hodson added, a continuous entertainment program is planned in the coliseum

The director estimated that $200 000 to $300 000 would be needed to put the fair grounds into shape for the fair.

PEACE IN CHINA NOW SEEN POSSIBLE

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, Oct. 11—Chinese Nationalists and Communists, after decades of bloodshed and five weeks of conferences, have agreed upon basic principles of a political peace and will announce the news officially in a joint communique tomorrow.

Mao Tze-Tung, leader of powerful Communist forces around Yenan in Shensi province, told correspondents "the outlook is optimistic" as he boarded a plane today for his capital to report on the accord.

Mao conceded some difficulties remained, but said these should be overcome.

Tomorrow's communique, originally scheduled for issuance on China's big national holiday yesterday (double tenth—Oct 10) was delayed for a final polishing by Mao and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

It is expected to cover generalities on which the disputants have agreed and to report the establishment of a broadly based political council to take up other outstanding differences.

Attlee Calls Cabinet To Consider Strike

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct 11—Prime Minister Atlee summoned his labor cabinet into executive session today to consider the dock strike which spread to Glasgow and threatened Great Britain with a hungry week-end

All major docks faced imminent tieups and delivery of food in these typically rationed islands was imperilled.

The question of government intervention appeared certain to be raised when the house of commons assembles this afternoon

The huge docks at Glasgow were closed down when 4 000 Scottish stevedores joined the strike

When railroads were first across the west, trains were held up by herds of buffalo.
